Chicago Restaurant Week has announced its 2012 participants, and the list of 200-plus Chicago-area restaurants includes quite a few new restaurants.

The annual event, which this year kicks off Feb. 17 and runs through Feb. 26, encourages diners to make reservations at participating restaurants offering special menus for $22 lunches and/or $33 dinners (some offer a $44 option instead or in addition).

Here are a few highlights as far as new restaurants go: Bistro Voltaire, Bombay Spice, Cantina Laredo, Farmhouse, Filini, Grange Hall Burger Bar, GT Fish & Oyster, Michael Jordan's Steak House, Paris Club, Taverna 750, Three (Ill) Forks and Union Sushi & Barbeque Bar. Check out a larger list of highlights on metromix.com, or see the full (searchable) list of participating restaurants is available online.
